WEBSITE HELP DESK SERVICES

Want to communicate live with your visitors? Want to see live statistics when someone is visiting your site? Have your potential customers efficiently and effectively chat with your Sales or Support staff.

We can add live chat to your website and train you how to use the tool to communicate live with your customers. See what page they are in real time; see how they got to your site, which keyword brought them to your website. Initiate a chat session with them, or let them request a chat session. All this done securely and privately on your own web server.

Features include: real time chat, operator to operator chats, transcripts, push pages and much more...

Would you like to add Support ticketing options for your customers, so you can track and respond rapidly to support or sales questions?

We can add true Help Desk support to your website so that your customers and potential customers can have instant access to FAQ items, Knowledge Base information, as well as a state of the art ticketing system that allow both you and your customer to track their sales or support questions. You can predefine subjects and departments for your clients to choose from when they contact you.
